A Sick Set of Politicians

A dispatch from Washington to the St Louis Democrat Nov 7th) says

If Washington over build a sicker set of politicians than it holds to night political history has failed to record it The President is sick Seward seems to have reached the last end of all his sixty and ninety day peregrinations McCulloch reports the political market flat Browning is willing to be pardoned Stanbery pretends to be still studying, but how the Baltimore radical lawyers outwitted him Welles wishes his party had been as hard to whip as the World and all the Departments who have sold themselves to Andy look as if they had gone cheap

Many of the political workers who have surrounded the President talk as if ready to abandon him and most of them charge the crushing defeat to his blunders There is no doubt that Johnson and Seward expected to carry New York Seward speaking repeatedly a few days since, said Count me out of the ring if New York does not give us 50 000 majority The President within a week, in a conversation scouted the idea of Logan's majority being over 6 000 and declared that there could be no doubt of John Hogan's election In fact the President is reported by his friends to be feeling worse over the defeat of Hogan than over the loss in any other district Hogan swung round the circle with him, attended Conventions for him stumped the country for him, dispensed his Missouri patronage and assured him that Wisconsin elections were going right

Next to Hogan's case, the election of Halsey in the Newark New Jersey district is the severest blow to the Johnson clique Halsey was removed as Collector to prevent him carrying the district for the Radicals by the patronage of the office and the result is that he carried it for himself against the patronage The Camden and Amboy monopoly also used its whole power to defeat Halsey The President's organ speaking of the elections says 'The President is calm as a summer's morning The result of the elections confirm him more strongly and determinedly in his patriotic purpose and policy Our convictions are clear that the final triumph of those high Conservative principles guiding the Administration are pointed out clearly as sunlight by the figures of the State elections which were held yesterday"

Prominent politicians from Baltimore state that there is no despondency felt by the Unionists of Maryland but that on the contrary, they are very confident as to the future, and assert that they will hereafter fight the battle on an advanced platform and that it will include impartial suffrage Perfect confidence is felt that J D Thomas and Stewart will secure their seats in the next Congress as great have been the frauds, and so open the perjury which defeated him

TWO HONRIBLE MURDERS —A Nevada (Cal) dispatch of the 27th November gives the following intelligence

Two men, G L Cooper and Joseph Kyle, were brutally murdered last night at Cooper's Crossing on the South Yuba The body of Cooper was found his morning lying on the bridge the head and body most horribly mutilated by deep gashes from an axe From the white frost on the body it was evident the murder took place some hours before Kyle was found dead, and also murdered in like manner near the toll house From appearances it seems that the murderers came into the house in the evening and an affray took place Kyle was killed on the spot the head being nearly severed from the neck. Cooper was wounded and attempted to escape but was followed and hewed down upon the bridge The object of the murders was robbery The safe was opened and $500 or $600 taken, but purses were found upon the dead bodies untouched and two or three greenbacks were left on the floor A small secretary contained the key of the safe that was opened with the same axe that did the deed, as also two trunks in the chamber, but a trunk below was left unopened Two men who slept at the toll house were away at the time and facts seem to show that the time was chosen when but two men were at home to perpetrate the robbery and that the deed was done by those familiar with the premises Cooper had but one hand and Kyle has been sickly some years It is the most horrible affair that ever occurred in the county and the people are greatly excited

DEATH AND BURIAL OF COLUMBUS —We heard the question asked of a student in history a few days ago "Where was Christopher Columbus buried" No one was able to give an answer at the time We have however found in Prescott's Life of Ferdinand and Isabella the following facts which were interesting to us, and we believe will be to our readers

'Columbus died May 20th, 1506 in the neighborhood of Valladolid, Spain It was on the day of the Lord's ascension His death took place with little apparent suffering and in the most christian spirit of resignation His remains were first deposited in the Convent of St Francis at Valladolid but six years after they were removed to the Carthusian Monastery at Las Cuevas at Seville where King Ferdinand erected over him a costly monument From this spot his body was transported, in the year 1536 to the Island of St. Domingo, the theatre of his discoveries On the cession of St Domingo to France in 1795, the body of Columbus was removed to the Island of Cuba, where he still now quietly repose in the Cathedral Church of Havana.

THE LATE DECISION IN TENNESSEE —The Sacramento Union has the following with regard to the late decision by Judge Cooper, at Murfreesboro, Tennessee concerning the State organization of Tennessee and the franchise act under which Brownlow and the rest of the officials were elected

A judge of one of the minor courts of Tennessee has decided that the State Government is bogus and the franchise law unconstitutional The reporter gravely adds "The decision is most important and will have an immediate effect" On the contrary, the decision is most absurd and will have no effect whatever The legitimacy of State Governments is a political question to be settled by Congress, not by the judiciary (See the opinion of Justice Taney in the Dorr rebellion case) The constitutionality of the franchise law is a different matter, but that question remains to be determined by the Supreme Court of the State and consequently the decision of the court below can have no immediate effect.

A POINTED ILLUSTRATION —A correspondent of the Milwaukie Sentinel says that the following colloquy recently occurred between a noisy, brawling Democratic politician and a quiet, observing Republican It hits the nail on the head and is too good to be lost

Democrat—I demand to know sir, if the States lately in rebellion are in the Union or out of the Union? Just answer that, if you will

Republican—The question is well illustrated in your own personal history Four years ago you united with the church here and if I am rightly informed you have been rather a hard customer to manage but lately charges have been preferred against you for downright misconduct, and you have been suspended until your case be examined and your fitness for membership determined Now, sir I demand to know whether you are in the church or out of the church?

The Democrat appeared to see the point and left

One day, during the hard winter of 1862 a Miss Arnold applied to Gen Milroy for a permit to forage her cow whose milk was the chief support of the family

'Are you loyal?' asked the General

'Yes,' she replied

He began to write the permit

'To the United States or Confederate States?'

'To the Confederacy of course she replied

'Then I shall give you no permit. This is famous rebellion must be crushed'

Well said she if you think you can crush it by starving John Arnold's old cow go it"

Colonel Goss, Democratic candidate for State Auditor in Kansas was killed, and Colonel Phillips formerly correspondent of the New York Tribune was badly wounded, in a fight with a gang of ruffians in Southern Kansas recently

Lopez has a corps of regimen whose especial work is picking off the allied officers and they do it prodigiously

We will engage to give the Herald man a new wig, a pair of spectacles or some other present equally suitable and becoming if he will let his readers see in his paper the following from the Advocate of Saturday last

In the Advocate of last week it was said in a brief article, that certain exchanges came to that office that uniformly mentioned the rebel leaders in terms of sympathy and respect while they as uniformly heaped epithets on the heads of Union men whether in civil or military positions during the war.

The Herald in characteristic style and taste pronounced it a lie' and then it hurled about a score of epithets at the poor editor of the Advocate

Now as facts are more convincing than mere assertions we ask the reader to consult the leader of the Herald of the 2d He will find that our cotemporary says 'Davis Lee Beauregard Johnson and the pirate Semmes are all members of Christian churches in good standing—that they all illustrate in their private lives, the most unexceptionable type of the Christian character—that they only fought for 'independence' So much for the rebel leaders!

Will the reader now please consult the leader of the *

Rejected

The telegraph gives information that two more Southern Legislatures have rejected the constitutional amendment It is plainly impossible to get any of the rebellious States which have been "reconstructed" on Johnson s plan, to adopt it That hope must be abandoned for another year at least The rejection of the amendment by the South brings the great question which has been in debate ever since the rebellion was suppressed, directly before Congress again Never were people more unwise than those of the South have been in their action on this matter Their folly is comparable to nothing except their former folly in continuing the war for the sake of slavery after they were assured that if they persisted slavery should be abolished In the early stages of the war they could have had easy terms by laying down their arms. But they continued to resist, with what consequence to themselves they eventually found to their deep humiliation and sorrow So now, they could regain their former place in the Union on terms alike easy and just, but they reject the conditions with every expression of arrogance and contempt. They will soon have occasion to regret their present obstinacy and blindness Congress is master of the situation Already we hear of a movement to provide Territorial Governments for the rebellious communities Their action on the amendment may and probably will, determine Congress at once The question might have slept during the present session had not the South made such hasts to declare its hostility to the loyal plan When the loyal millions fully understand that the terms they have offered have been rejected, they will undoubtedly sustain Congress in the course now proposed But the amendment will not be given up Every one of its objects will be secured. The Northern people are determined that the final settlement shall be such as to give them equal representation in Congress with the South, that leading rebels, and especially those who have added the crime of perjury to the crime of treason, shall be debarred from holding office, that all loyal persons shall have equal rights before the law, that there shall be a guarantee against the payment of the debt that was contracted in the endeavor to overthrow the Government If these objects cannot be reached in one way, there remains another. If they can not be obtained in the way proposed by Congress at the last session and endorsed by the people in the elections, they can be reached by the abolishment of the present rebel governments of the South, and the establishment of a system which will bring those communities, through the gateway appointed for Territories, into their relations with the Union The restoration must be effected on such terms as the changed condition of the country has made necessary. The loyal and victorious North is determined to secure the results of the struggle. Her demands are set forth, substantially, in the proposed amendment, and she will make no abatement. How these results are secured is of little consequence, the great object is to secure them. The people are not restricted to a single mode of action, and since they have failed to attain their object in the way they first proposed, they will try another method which will be attended with surer and more satisfactory results.

One of the most gratifying results of last month's elections is the defeat of the notorious Jack Rogers of the Fourth New Jersey District. Rogers is to the Copperhead worthy who brought a long report into Congress trying to excuse Jeff. Davis and the assassins of Mr Lincoln from the guilt of their crimes. Two years ago he (Rogers) was elected by a majority of 1886 He is now defeated by 450 majority. This is the answer which the Northern people have for such infamous servants of the rebellion as he

The Advocate of Saturday bars well considered articles in regard to the proposed impeachment of the President, and pronounces decidedly against any movement of the kind. Let us see if the rebel paper of this city will copy the Advocate's article and vituperatively assail the worthy doctor for "meddling with politics." We'll warrant that on this occasion it will do nothing of the kind

The Richmond Whig says that Dutch Gap canal, dug by order of Gen. Butler, is now much navigated by sail vessels and steam tugs.

France and the United States.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 —Bigelow replied to Seward on Tuesday, in a cypher dispatch as follows In answer to a verbal communication Moustier writes that France has not changed her resolutions, but for military considerations it was deemed expedient to substitute complete evacuation for evacuation in separate detachments All the troops will leave Mexico in March. No information had been received up to noon to-day of Sedgwick's arrest in Matamoras

CHICAGO, Dec 8 —The following concludes the dispatches contained in the one published yesterday) Minister Bigelow in a letter to Seward dated Nov 9th details an interview with Napoleon He (Napoleon) went on to say that he sent General Castelnau to Mexico charged to inform Maximilian that France could not give him another cent of money or a man more If he thought he could sustain himself there also to announce to him that withdraw his troops France was obliged to do so, but if on the other hand he was disposed to abdicate all was the same that Majesty on a letter to the General Castelnau was directed to find out privately and without ostentation for the protection of French interests and to bring all the army home in the spring

I asked him Majesty if the President of the United States had been notified of the withdrawal He (Napoleon) replied that he had directed preparations and first change in his Majesty's policy He said he did not know. Mr De Mount has ought to have done so As these events occurred during the change of the Ministry France Affairs it was possible that it had been neglected There is but one wrath rest born about the determination of France to send her hands of Mexico as soon as possible nor have I any doubt that the Emperor is acting in entire good faith towards the United States

Secretary acknowledges the receipt of the above letter on the 4th inst. Nov 23d and says that this Government is surprised and affected at the deep concern at the announcement now made for the first time that the promised recall of one detachment of French troops in November has been postponed We cannot acquiesce First because the evacuation is indefinite and vague Second because we have no authority for stating to Congress and the American people that we have now a better guarantee for the withdrawal of the whole expedition any force in the spring than we have heretofore had of the withdrawal of a part in Nov 1867 is to be in full reliance upon at least the literal performance of the Emperor's existing agreement, we have taken measures while facilitating the anticipated French evacuation to co operate with the Republican Government for the promotion of the pacification of the country for the early and complete restoration and the proper constitutional authority of that Government as part of those measures Campbell, our newly appointed Minister, attended by Lieut Gen Sherman has been sent to Mexico in order to confer with President Juarez on subjects which are deeply interesting to the United States and of vital importance to Mexico

Our policy and measures adopted in full reliance upon the anticipated truthfulness of the evacuation, were promptly made known to the French Legation here and doubtless you have already executed your instructions by making them known to the Emperor's government in Paris; nor can we modify the instructions under which he is expected to treat, and under which he may even now be treating with the Mexican government of Mexico That Government will of course most earnestly desire and confidently expect the early and entire discontinuance of the hostile occupation You will therefore state to the Emperor's Government that the President sincerely hopes and expects that the evacuation of Mexico will be carried into effect with such conformity to the existing agreement as the opportune complications which call for this dispatch shall allow Campbell will be advised of that complication Instructions will be issued to the U S military forces of observation to await in every case special directions from the President of the United States This will be done with confident expectation that the telegraph or mail will soon bring satisfactory reasons from the Emperor in reply to this note You will assure the French Government that the United States, while they seek relief for Mexico, desire nothing more earnestly than to preserve peace and friendship with France. Nor does the President allow himself to doubt that what has been determined in France most inauspiciously as we think, has been decided upon inadvertently, without full reflection upon the embarrassment it must produce here, and without any design to retain the French expeditionary force in Mexico beyond the full period of 18 months, originally stipulated for the completion of the evacuation

WASHINGTON, Dec 8 —There is a very clever point made in the diplomatic correspondence about Mexico Bigelow writes that in a conversation with the Emperor on the 7th of November, his majesty said the cable dispatch to Bazaine countermanding the order for the embarkation of the troops was not sent in cypher; that no secret could be made of its tenor in the United States; and explained to Bigelow how it happened that the United States was not officially informed of a change of the French programme Napoleon intimated that the telegram was purposely sent in that way to show there was nothing in his plan to disguise. Seward in reply, says We consult only official communications to ascertain the purposes and resolutions of France, and we make our own purposes and reasons known in the same way

Secretary Seward's five thousand words cable telegram to Bigelow is not published, but Bigelow's answer is unofficially given. Seward is reported satisfied with this arrangement

National Asylum for Soldiers,

The managers of the National Asylum for disabled soldiers have decided to locate the Central Asylum here, with branch asylums at Augusta, Mo, and Milwaukee, Wisconsin

NEW YORK, Dec 8 —The Washington special dispatch says The President and Cabinet with one exception, are displeased at Napoleon's reply It is considered doubtful whether after all the remonstrances, the Emperor will be allowed to have his own way It is probable that Napoleon a refusal, is in retaliation for violation of neutrality laws, the arrest of Ortega, the dispatch of Sherman to Mexico and other objectionable movements.

Rumors in Regard to Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec 8 —There are doubts whether Kelly a bill to create a department of internal revenue which aims to take the control of the revenue from the treasury department, can become a law It is now in Ways and Means committee Even if reported favorably upon and passed, it will be certain to receive an executive veto There is an impression that it will be smothered in the committee

There is much discussion out of Congress upon the bill to abrogate State governments in the South The opponents of the measure are confident they can defeat it in the Senate where a two-thirds vote over the veto could not be obtained.

WASHINGTON, Dec 8.—No official information has been received by Government in reference to the occupation of Matamoras by Sedgwick The last official information in reference to the affair is in a letter from Sheridan, announcing his intention to proceed to Brownsville and relieve Sedgwick from command if he had so far exceeded his authority as to take possession of Matamoras Orders have since been issued from headquarters here for the arrest of Sedgwick. All that has been done has been approved with what is proposed by Sheridan who, at latest accounts, was at Brownsville.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec 8 —Both the Ortega and Juarez factions in Mexico condemn Sedgwick's occupation of Matamoras. Several officers belonging to the United States were insulted in Matamoras on Dec. 2d and one belonging to a Colorado regiment was beaten to death by some of Cortina's men News from the Rio Grande is thought to indicate implacable hostility to American intervention in the affairs of Mexico and that any effort of the kind would cause more united opposition than was made against French intervention or the Empire.

EDITOR APPEARED.—The offices and rooms of the OREGONIAN establishment are now heated altogether by steam, issued from the boiler situated on the ground floor through coils of iron tubes. The arrangement is the invention of Mr. C. H. Myers, proprietor of the Dixie Plantation. Gas and Steam fitting. Establishment for Steam Pipe Heating. Gas and Steam fitting. Establishment for Steam Pipe Heating from the boiler above the water line throughout the building, each room being provided with its own steam-cock so that any single room can be heated without affecting in any degree any other. The coils end in a common discharge pipe which passes from the boiler below the water line. This pipe is furnished with a check valve and a discharge valve. The check valve will prevent the water from the boiler being forced back into the discharge pipe, and the other to discharge any excess of water which may accumulate either from the boiler or from condensation of the steam. The principle of Mr. Myers is that the steam from the upper part of the boiler passes through the main and coils and from the boiler through the discharge pipe, avoiding the loss of water which always occurs if the steam is allowed to escape into the air. Whether the theory is correct or not, whether the steam moves in a continuous current, or whether the steam must be condensed before it can move, it quite immaterial for the success of the arrangement is complete. The heaters work admirably and the cost of heating all the several rooms of the establishment for a little more than fifty per cent. greater than the cost of heating a single room with an office stove. It is believed that during the most severe weather incident to an Oregon winter a single boiler of the capacity of ours will be sufficient to heat an entire block; with an ordinary pressure of steam. The economy of the arrangement is readily appreciated.

RECORDER'S COURT—HOFFMAN, JUDGE.—On Monday morning, the following proceedings were had:

John Bird, charged with disorderly and indecent conduct. Dismissed.

Ann Lee Hollister, Mary Chesham, Barbara Stoltz and Mary Perez, charged with disorderly conduct, fighting, and beating Barbara Ritter; continued until Thursday, on account of the inability of the complaining witness to appear. The woman was beaten and stamped in such a manner as to confine her, for the present, to her house.

Mary Kingsbury pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy and was fined $5 and costs in each case.

Patrick Kelly, on a charge of vagrancy, was sent to the county jail for five days. The old man was in a most pitiable plight, cold, almost naked and evidently suffering from the effects of a long debauch.

J. W. Mosby, charged with having been drunk and fighting on the street, found guilty, but having been in jail on Saturday was let off without further punishment.

Fernando Patmore, Larry Smith, John Williams and Thomas Thomas charged with gambling, waived examination and were held to bail; Williams and Thomas in the sum of $100 each, and the other two in $50 each.

REVIEW.—There are so many places in the city where the nostrils may take offence that it is scarcely worth while to speak of any place in particular; but we might mention a certain corner, very near the Bank of Commerce, where there are such a rare combination of separate and distinct smells that the nose can count forty well defined stinks at any one time without making a short speech expressive of the day or night. Every olfactory is near the spot, which, if any smell be mild, there must be a rotten as ever existed in the State of Mississippi. This corner always suggests what Coleridge said of the city of Cologne:

"I count the rats who reign over sewers and sinks,
The river Rhine; it is well known,
Doth wash your city of Cologne;
But tell me, nymphs what power divine
Shall purify the river Rhine?"

Perfume is probably not as foul as Cologne, for Colognes of the third class could be smelled and described sixty dozen yards in that city, in a single morning's walk.

THE FAIR.—We are informed that great preparations for the fair to commence on Thursday, are being made. The fair will open at noon on Thursday and in the evening will take place a great sale of the articles contributed. Of the other features of the fair we are not yet sufficiently informed. The ladies of this church have as yet raised $1 100, which is now out upon interest, and will remain until the society is ready to begin the erection of their new church building, to which end the proceeds of the fair will be, also devoted. We hope to see a liberal spirit in bestowing for the lady managers of the fair.

STEAMBOAT TALK.—We noticed on the wharf, yesterday, several bundles of small fir trees, to go by steamer to San Francisco. They had been taken up with roots and all, and were, of course, designed for the ornamental purposes. San Francisco has no fir, but it has, to our taste, a much handsomer tree for a door-yard ornament—a species of dwarf oak which grows on the sand hills about the bay. The head of any dinner becomes those by multiplication of that good thing, and the truth of our assertion will be manifested in the eager satisfaction with which its advent is hailed. For Christmas and New Year's day or any day this is the present of all to make to a lady, and can be obtained of WM CURRIER & CO., agents, 103 Front street, Portland.

THE LOST.—Lost by a lady yesterday, on Fourth street, between Black and the Sisters school a small gold cross of jet and gold. The finder will confer a favor by leaving it at the OREGONIAN office.

Visit this Engine Co. No. 3.—Drill this evening at 7 o'clock. By order of the Foreman.

The Farm consists of six hundred and thirty-five acres, all excellent arable land, about one-half of which is under good fence. On the premises are a good Frame House and Barn and a large fine Orchard, with an abundance of good water, excellent oak timber and a fine grove of fir. The farm is located in a healthy and pleasant neighborhood. There is a good road leading from it to Dayton, a point reached by steamboats the whole year. Altogether it is one of the most desirable locations in the State. Any one desiring a farm would do well to examine this place. Please call upon or address the undersigned at Dayton, Yamhill County, Oregon.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his production in the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Meeting in New York

GENERAL BUTLER HAS A ROUGH TIME OF IT

[From the New York Tribune.]

At a Union meeting in Horace Greeley's district, New York city on the night of November 4th, General Butler spoke as follows:

Fellow Citizens—The issue is now before us whether the men who by force and fraud sought to overthrow the country shall govern it or on the contrary. [The General was compelled to pause the hooting of the crowd making it impossible for him to be heard even by those nearest to him on the stand. A small gang of men, respectable in appearance, had taken a position on the upper stairs of the City Hall, and led in the disturbance, groaning the speaker and cheering for Hoffman, the great mass below taking the cue from them.] General Butler—I say, the issue is upon us whether those who by force and fraud sought to overthrow this country, shall hereafter conduct its otherwise glorious destiny. [A voice—Three cheers for John T Hoffman, which were loudly given—Three cheers for Reuben L Fenton followed, but were lost in the louder cheers which were again given for Hoffman by the rafians whose object was to break up the meeting.] General Butler—I beg your pardon, you have taken your time, now I will take mine. [Cries of "Good," and cheers, followed by groans, hisses and prolonged noise.] I am in no hurry. We have got all the afternoon before us and nothing else to do. When this war was closed [renewed cheering, laughter, groans and noise]—when the last rebel in the South had surrendered [cat calls cheers, groans, etc.]—when their citizens become substantially paroled prisoners of war. [A large apple was here thrown at the General, which struck him on the breast, it was picked up and handed to him and the unconcern and good humor which he displayed, taking his knife out of his pocket, cutting and eating the apple, called forth the admiration even of those who were interrupting him, and for a space it seemed he would be allowed to proceed, but the crowd of respectable dressed roughs, then their station on the City Hall steps, gave the signal, and disorder and confusion again resumed its sway. General Butler put on his hat as if he had come to stay, and a friend asked him to put on his overcoat but he replied, "I am all right," and added, "This is a pretty good apple."] Again essaying to speak he said: Since I have been standing here, fellow citizens, I could not help but remember how much quieter these fellows were in 1864, [cheers and groans] when instead of having a traitor at the head of the Government we had an honest, true patriot, and when that city was under the rule of a chief officer who could control it. [The noise and confusion which here took place is indescribable, and General Butler retired further back on the platform and consulted with his friends. A man on the City Hall steps was seen violently gesticulating and addressing the crowd.] Advancing again, General Butler said: Oh, my fellow citizens, there is no use—there is no reason why I should play the blackguard. I am not a President nor a Vice President,—I will not go into any controversy with an angry crowd. [Confusion worse confounded again reigned, and blackguard epithets came up from the crowd which are not fit for publication. Cries of "Put him out," "Go on, General," alternated, and a gentleman near the stand remarked, "Free speech is hardly in order here, we are too near the City Hall." Three cheers for General Butler were succeeded by groans and yells. The proceedings thus briefly noted occupied about half an hour.]

General Wardrop—Fellow Citizens [Cheers, groans and cries of "Butler," "Butler?"] The city of New York will surely uphold a free press and free speech. Will you allow this meeting to be interrupted? [Cries of "no," and groans.] Those who are in favor of free speech and of listening to General Butler will say aye. [Loud cries of "aye" amid the shouting of the mob.] Those opposed will say "no." It is unanimous. General Butler will proceed. [Laughter.]

General Butler—I say the nation might well have hoped [Groans and yells.] But although the rebellion was overcome the rebellious spirit was not subdued. The men of the South, though conquered, had fled, many of them to the North, and there, in alliance with those who throughout the war were in league with them, undertook to put up rebellion here and to accomplish by other means what they had failed to secure by open war. The consequence was that when the rebel army surrendered, the Republican party had to impress its force upon the nation in order that its principles might be victorious forevermore over the men who were so far forgetful of their duty and obligations, under the Constitution to the Government as to range themselves on the side of the enemy of the country. After seven months the worse than wasted in a nominal attempt to reorganize the Government, really in fostering a spirit of rebellion more rampant, more blatant than that before the war, Congress assembled, and after hearing the evidence from all parts of the country [groans] necessary to guide its action [groans], it began a series of amendments which were put to the people, and being put to the people thus far they have been triumphant [Cheers and groans.] Wherever intelligence, wherever true, honest hearts have claimed their sway, the people have spoken, and in one united voice, from Maine to Iowa, so far as their votes has been heard, it has triumphed. Those amendments are now for the consideration of all true and just men—of those men who hate the good of the country at heart, and being so before the people, it is our duty calmly and dispassionately as we may, to discuss them. Mere ribaldry, personal vituperation, calumny, will harm nobody, convince nobody. It may for a moment make the unthinking laugh, but it will make the judicious grieve. There are men who desire to hear, and who desire to act understandingly, men who desire to have principles discussed before them, and to found upon that discussion such action as befits freemen. On the other hand, there are men who are driven to the polls like sheep to the shambles, who only follow blindly that which they are told to do. They do not want discussion, but desire that others shall not hear what they themselves may not be able to understand. [Loud cheers.]

[The General had proceeded with his remarks thus far, not heeding the tumult of the crowd, his voice at times scarcely reaching those around him on the stand, the noise was so great. Those of the mob who were near enough to catch the tenor of his remarks became furious and every few minutes the police were obliged to collar and remove some demonstrative rowdy who was trying to incite the rioters to violent measures. At this time a fight seemed inevitable, but the police behaved nobly, and by their determined and prompt interference prevented the peace if they did not secure order.]

General Butler continued, amid alternate cheers and groans. And, perhaps, no better exemplification of such a spirit could be furnished than in the scene before us, where a few men, merely by the force of noise, are trying to stifle free speech, under the eye of their leader, whom by such arguments they hope to elect as Governor, and who has now the power by a word to still the mob which disgraces the city of New York [cheers from the citizens], over which he presides. [Cheers from the mob.] If he were fit to rule he would see that he is merely following in the footsteps of him who, from the steps of that building, addressed a murderous crowd of orphan killers [Cheers from the citizens.] One Democratic Governor of the State of New York, by his complicity with the mob spirit, has forever disowned himself to that infamy which mobocracy must ever find in this country. [Cheers from the citizens.] Another would be Governor, the Mayor, in the presents and purlieus of his own office sets his hired retainers at no such a work to put down free speech and free discussion. [Applause from the citizens and three groans for Seymour.] It has been said that this matter, this disturbance, is personal to myself. I ask no higher compliment than that which my fellow-citizens would pay me after comparing the spectacle on the third day before the election with the state of things which existed here on the third day before the election of November, 1863, when I had command of the city of New York [Immense applause from the citizens, and groans and hootings from the mob.] No ear dared yelp [laughter and cheers] but with "bated breath and whimpering humbleness" they took off their hats as I passed [Cheers from the citizens.] If there is any argument in favor of despotic rule and against the rule of the majority in a republican country, it is such scenes as this, and I warn all those men that it will take but few more such scenes to determine the great national Republican party of the Union to see to it that there is peace in New York at every election as there was in 1864. [The police have captured and marched off another rioter.] The question has more than once been asked is it possible that the city of New York shall be governed by the majority of its citizens. It will depend alone upon the conduct of its citizens. If its leading men form rings, if its officers are unfaithful to their trust, if men who ought to know better on occasion shirk spirit, if it cannot be controlled by other means, then the good people of the State of New York will see to it that their sovereignty is not to be stifled by the acts of the mobs of New York. [Cheers from the citizens and loud hoots from the mob.] And those men who are willing for the sake of a mere temporary triumph to set law and order at defiance and assume that they can safely interfere with the sacred rights of the American citizen, will find that they have made a mistake, as all such short sighted men do. Reason will come back to all the true men of the country and while in a given space the voice of reason may be stifled, yet the great heart of the country will prove true to liberty, and not only liberty, but liberty governed by law. [Cheers from the citizens.]

It was this spirit of unreason and misrule that brought on this terrible war. It is the spirit of misrule which has been introduced into the community of New York from the South and it has produced all the outrages upon the liberty of the citizen and upon freedom of speech. There are I doubt not within the sound of my voice many many of those men who fled here from the South during the war for protection and who are attempting to introduce the manners and customs from that they are in a city and the warm nest. The men who had deserted their section who fled from it when the war clouds had provoked, are now endeavoring to incite the bad passions of the men of the city which gave them refuge. The honest Union rabble men of New York would certainly never interfere with the freedom of speech. It is only the sewer, under the cover of brute force though in a meager minority undertaking to interfere with the rights of others. There can be no better argument in behalf of the Republican party than that everywhere it bears sway in the country, from Maine even unto Oregon—aye, from Maine to New Orleans there is the right of free speech save in this city, where the Democratic party has a triumphant majority. [Cheers from the citizens.] If such are the teachings of Democracy [hooting from the mob]—if this is the Democracy of New York, the sooner it is cleared out the better. [Cheers and groans.] If there is a church in this city which teaches its communicants such conduct, the sooner that church is banished from the country the better. [Cheers.] If there is any set of men attempting to govern the city who permit it to be thus brought into disrepute, the sooner they are made to pay the penalty of their crimes the better. [Loud cheers from the citizens and yells of indignation from the gang on the City Hall steps, echoed and re-echoed by their retainers in different parts of the crowd.] Organized thieves [Cheers], systematic plunderers, with their arms up to the elbows in the public treasury, while they filch the means of their subsistence, they simply hire ruffians to attack those they dare not meet in any other way [three cheers from the citizens], and while one can pardon the poor deluded men who do their master's bidding, yet an indignant people will not pardon him who sets them on. [A voice—"We will put honest men in office."] For here and now I charge—I charge this mob upon Hoffman. [Cheers.] Yes, as here and now I charge the murder of babes and children upon Horatio Seymour. [Great sensation groans and cheers.] Both are equally responsible, and both will sooner or later meet the repudiation of an indignant community. One has gone out and the other is following him. [Cheers and groans.] Why, what would you expect? In 1863 the men who are now hallowing and hooting were killing negro children! They are the men who were murdering babes when they dare not look a man in the face [Cheers and groans, those of the mob nearest the stand who could hear the speaker shouting and dancing with rage, and the police busy keeping them back,] and when the power of the armies of the United States came here they were the first to bow their heads [Cheers and groans.] Why the poor fools. [Laughter, cheers and groans.] I have four superiors in Baltimore and New Orleans. [Great disorder and excitement, three cheers for General Butler.] I have hung your betters [cheers] and if you do not behave I shall get the chance to do the same to you. [Three cheers for Butler.] I have seen many more than you with arms in their hands, with mighty rifles and muskets and bayonets, and I did not flinch from them. Do you suppose I shall flinch from one stinking breath? [Laughter, groans and cheers.] A man who has smelt gunpowder can stand gerlic. [Laughter, groans and cheers.] You the shouters here think you are the equals of the negro, do you? [Tremendous cheers and groans.] The negro is as much, as immeasurably your superior as heaven is above the hell where you are going. [Cheers and groans.] I do not respect you, and I certainly do not want your respect. You may be quite sure I do not fear you. You are not to overpower free speech and free thought, and insane howlings will not take the place of argument. Now, then, men of the Five Points [laughter and cheers] bullies of the bawdy houses! thieves of the lobby! and burglars of the Tombs [laughter, cheers groans and howls, resembling a chorus of pandemonium], I simply declare here, as the voice of this nation, that you are not fit for the exercise of the electave franchise [great excitement], and in no better way than this could you demonstrate the fact. I do not wish to bandy words with an ignorant, foolish, excited crowd, and I have only used these few describing epithets in order that they may understand that I neither love nor fear them, and that there is an end to patience. Discussion here such as would convince reasoning men, I saw at first was not to be hoped, and I only wasted breath with the men who otherwise, it might be said, were but the ornaments of the crowd, had withdrawn. When I saw that order could not be restored, from that moment I determined I would speak to those men as they deserved, and in language they would understand, because familiar to their ears. [The crowd here swayed to and fro, violent men endeavoring to force their way through the line of police which surrounded the stand. A number of large placards were held up in various parts of the crowd, bearing the inscription "Workingmen's nominations—For Governor, John T. Hoffman, for Superintendent, John F. Taylor."]

General Butler—The police now have one advantage they know that every man holding one of those cards is a rioter. I would judge by the number of cards there would be about one thousand [cheers], not more and probably less.

Three cheers were given for John T Hoffman, and an excited man in the crowd near the stand, pointing to one of the cards which a boy was holding near him, shouted to General Butler, "We will cheer for Jeff Davis, too." Three cheers immediately followed from those who surrounded him and heard his exclamation and a fight ensued, which was quickly quelled by the police.

The Republicans of the 11th Indiana District elected, in 1864, Mr T N Stillwell to represent them in Congress. Mr Stillwell enlisted in the bread and butter brigade, and was therefore repudiated by his constituency, who nominated Gen Shanks in his stead. Stillwell thereupon went over to the Democracy, and carried with him the leading newspaper of the district. The returns show that Gen Shanks has been elected by a majority of 2,677, a Republican gain of 637 over Stillwell's majority in 1864. This is but another item of the accumulating evidence proving that the people who govern this country are guided by principles and not by men.

THE REBEL ORGANS ADOPT MICAWBER'S PHILOSOPHY.—The President's rebel organs, following the example of poor Browning, whom the people of Illinois repudiated some years ago, console themselves since the October elections, says the Washington Chronicle, of Nov 3d, with the reflection that the result of the recent elections is not final. They conclude that it is best to adopt the Micawber philosophy and wait for "something to turn up." This is very well, but it won't give Andrew Johnson a majority in the Fortieth Congress—the only one in which he has any particular interest.

Finally I had to become a county charge, and when I was taken to Dr J W Brown and stated my case to him, he comforted me at once and commenced to treat my eyes and now I can well, and commend all those that are suffering with diseases of the eyes to call on Dr J W Brown. The reason why I do this is to let suffering humanity know where they can be cured. B JODWIN

This is to certify that my daughter was almost blind for over seven years and was declared by three physicians without obtaining any relief whatever finally took her to Dr J W Brown who examined her case a short time and began to give her treatment and her sight has been entirely restored. I do this to let those who are suffering with diseases of the eyes know where they can obtain a cure. It has been three years since her eyes were cured and they are just as well.

SALEM July 21, 1866

This is to certify that I was blind for over four months and almost blind for one year and a half. I tried several eye doctors but received no benefit. I had almost given my case up as hopeless when fortunately I heard of Dr J W Brown now of Salem. I was induced to try him. He performed a surgical operation and began to treat my eyes and gave me treatment and I recover and in a short time I was perfectly cured. I do this in justice to one who rescued me from a fate worse than death and also for the benefit of those who are laboring under similar afflictions that they may know where they can get relief. It is now about eight months since my eyes were cured and they still remain good. I can see to read the finest print without difficulty and my eyes can bear the strongest light without pain.
